

Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners

As a quality- and value-conscious, medium-sized family-owned company, Bitburger Braugruppe GmbH along with its affiliates (collectively "Bitburger") attaches importance to responsible, long-term value creation and compliance with all national and international legal provisions. In its procurement activities, Bitburger also pays heed to social and ecological aspects, such as human rights, working conditions and environmental protection, in addition to procedural, economic and technical criteria. In the case of the procurement of raw materials, goods and services nationally and internationally, Bitburger requires of its trading partners therefore that, in all business processes, they have sustainable procedures in place for ensuring compliance with environmental protection regulations, fair treatment of the workforce and observance of regulations on health and safety at work.

Moreover, Bitburger pays heed to the prevention of corruption and requires of its trading partners that they conduct themselves correctly in business. Apart from complying with the provisions of the law on cartels and competition, this also includes, in particular, observance of the regulations relating to responsible management ("corporate governance") and the provisions for the prevention of bribery, illegal money transfers ("money-laundering") and corruption. Therefore, Bitburger not only places its own employees under an obligation to comply with all applicable regulations and with the ethical principles laid down in this Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners, but it requires of all trading partners and their affiliates ("affiliates" within the meaning of this declaration are understood to be companies in which the respective trading partner directly or indirectly beneficially owns at least 50 % of the voting authorized share capital) that they comply with all important standards in the following fields:

Basic requirements

Bitburger requires of its trading partners that, in the execution of their activities, they conform to the respective applicable national laws, the principles of the United Nations Global Compact and this Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners. Bitburger requires that all trading partners introduce suitable processes that support compliance with the applicable laws at their company and promote continual improvement with regard to the principles and requirements of the Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners. Additionally, Bitburger requires of its trading partners that they ensure that their affiliates likewise recognize and comply with all principles and requirements described herein.

Furthermore, Bitburger requires that business decisions by its trading partners are not geared exclusively to short-term business success, but focus on their long-term orientation. All resources (raw materials, employees, energy etc.) shall be used as sparingly as possible so as to reduce adverse effects of business actions.

Environmental protection

Bitburger requires that its trading partners comply with the respective applicable national environmental laws, regulations and standards. Moreover, Bitburger requires that the trading partners set up and apply an environmental management system commensurate with the size of the respective trading partner's company (e.g. in accordance with ISO 14001) in order to minimize environmental burdens and dangers and improve environmental protection in their day-to-day business operations.

Product safety

Bitburger requires that its trading partners comply with the respective applicable regulations on product safety.

Employees, health and safety at work

Bitburger requires of its trading partners that they observe the fundamental rights of employees under the respective applicable national legislation. Moreover, Bitburger's trading partners shall recognize and apply the Core Labor Standards of the International Labor Organization in compliance with the laws and legal provisions applicable in the various countries and locations.

Bitburger requires that its trading partners prohibit the use of, and refrain from using, child labor at their companies. Insofar as national laws or regulations allow children between the ages of 13 and 15 to perform light labor, this shall under no circumstances be permitted, if the minor concerned is thereby prevented from complying with the general requirement to attend school or education, or if this employment harms his/her health or development.

Trading partners of Bitburger undertake to prevent any kind of discrimination in the recruitment of employees, in the promotion of employees or in the granting of training or further training measures. Equal opportunity and equal treatment shall be promoted. No employee shall be discriminated against on account of his/her gender, age, skin color, culture, ethnic origin, sexual orientation, disability, religious affiliation, religious practice or ideology.

Trading partners of Bitburger shall not allow any forced labor at their company.

Bitburger requires that, in conformity with the applicable national legislation, its trading partners pay heed to employee rights to freedom of association, i.e. the right to form a body representing employees and to conduct collective negotiations.

Bitburger's trading partners undertake to comply with the respective applicable national legislation relating to remuneration and working times. In particular, this obligation shall also encompass adherence to the collective bargaining agreements concluded and to the minimum wages set by law.

Bitburger's trading partners undertake to comply with the respective applicable national legislation relating to health and safety at work. Furthermore, it is expected that, within the scope of the respective international legislation, all trading partners set up and apply a health and safety management system commensurate with the size of the supplier's company (e.g. in accordance with OHSHS 18001). This shall encompass, on the one hand, the stemming of actual and potential risks at work and, on the other hand, the training of employees in how to optimally prevent accidents and occupational illnesses.

Conduct in business

Bitburger's trading partners undertake not to tolerate any form of corruption or bribery and to ensure at their companies compliance with the Conventions of the United Nations (UN) and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) relating to the combating of corruption, as well as with the relevant anti-corruption laws. In particular, all trading partners shall ensure that neither they nor their employees, subcontractors or representatives offer, promise or grant any advantages to Bitburger employees, or third parties closely associated with them, with the aim of obtaining, offering, promising or granting an order or any other preferential treatment in business transactions.

Bitburger requires that its trading partners do not misuse invitations or gifts for the purpose of exerting influence. Invitations or gifts shall be granted to Bitburger employees, or persons closely associated with them, only if the occasion and scope concerned are appropriate, i.e. they are of low value and can be regarded as an expression of business practice generally recognized at the respective place. Equally, the trading partners shall not demand any inappropriate advantages from Bitburger employees.

Bitburger requires that conflicts of interest be avoided. Trading partners shall make decisions relating to their business activities with Bitburger only on the basis of substantive criteria. Conflicts of interest, or even the appearance of conflicts of interest, with an employee's private concerns or economic interests elsewhere or other activities, including those of relatives or other close persons, shall be avoided.

Bitburger requires that its trading partners promote free and fair competition by always conducting themselves fairly in competition and heeding the applicable laws on cartels. Trading partners shall not participate in any collusion with competitors contrary to the law on cartels or misuse any market-controlling position possibly existing. Trading partners undertake to comply with the relevant statutory provisions on prevention of money-laundering and to not participate in money-laundering activities.

Application to the trading partners' own business relations

Bitburger's trading partners undertake to communicate to their subcontractors and suppliers all principles and requirements described herein and to likewise take these into account when selecting subcontractors and suppliers. The trading partners shall encourage their subcontractors and suppliers to comply with the standards described relating to human rights, working conditions, corruption prevention and environmental protection when performing their contractual obligations.

Compliance with the Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners

Compliance with the principles and requirements arising from this Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners by our trading partners shall be regularly reviewed by the trading partners themselves. Moreover, Bitburger or third parties appointed by Bitburger may, subject to agreement with the trading partner concerned, carry out random checks commensurate with the size of the respective trading partner's company. If there is any reason to suspect that the principles and requirements of this Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners are not being heeded, Bitburger shall be entitled to request information on the situation (e.g. in the event of negative media reporting).

Any breach of the requirements specified in this Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners shall be regarded as a material impairment of the contractual relationship between the trading partner and Bitburger. Bitburger shall have the right to prematurely terminate without prior notice some or all contractual relations with trading partners who provably fail to comply with this Bitburger Code of Conduct for Trading Partners, or who do not seek and implement improvement measures, despite having been set by Bitburger a reasonable time limit for doing so.
